

2-DAY INTRODUCTORY COLLABORATIVE TRAINING

Date and time: September 12 and September 13, 2019 (8:30 am to 4:30 pm)

Event: Cincinnati Academy of Collaborative Professionals Introductory Training

Join CACP to learn the power of the team model for collaborative divorce. Collaborative Practice is a voluntary dispute resolution process in which parties settle without resorting to litigation. It is a multidisciplinary approach involving attorneys, mental health professionals and financial specialists.

This introductory interdisciplinary Collaborative Training includes an introduction to the Collaborative Process including the philosophy of collaborative practice, skills development, ethics and practice development, and other practical considerations with an emphasis on team building between professionals. It provides the minimum standards for basic training set by the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals.

JEFFREY S. GOODMAN, ESQ. - Jeff received his J.D. from Vanderbilt University in 1984 and his B.A. from the University of Michigan in 1981. Jeff regards amicable dispute resolution as the core mission of an attorney's work and has applied all forms of alternate dispute resolution to facilitate the settlement of his clients' problems including arbitration, mediation, structured settlement, and collaboration. Jeff trained in collaborative family law in 2001 and has attended as well as presented at dozens of trainings since then. Jeff has served in leadership positions in the CACP, including as Co-Chair in 2014-16. Jeff is also a family law mediator. Jeff's law practice concentrates in family law and predominately in collaboration. Jeff believes fervently that his mission is to help bring positive change to the families he works with as they begin a new chapter in their lives.

ERINN McKEE HANNIGAN, ESQ. - Erinn is an Honors College graduate of Ball State University and received her law degree from Loyola University Chicago School of Law in 2002. She earned a Certificate of child law from Loyola by concentrating her legal studies in the areas of child and family law. She was admitted to the North Carolina bar in 2002 and the Ohio bar in 2006. Erinn is a bit unique in that she chose to attend law school for the sole purpose of becoming a domestic relations attorney. Upon graduation, she kept true to her goal and practices exclusively in domestic relations. Erinn works hard to help guide her clients towards their new normal. She works not only within the court system in litigation as an attorney for children or as a GAL but aids her clients in various forms of alternative dispute resolution practices as well. Erinn served as the co-chair of CACP and continues to serve on the board of the organization. Erinn is a member of the Domestic Relations Sections of the Cincinnati Bar Association, the Ohio Bar Association, the North Carolina Bar Association, the Association of Family and Conciliatory Courts and the International Association of Collaborative Professionals. Erinn is consistently named a Super Lawyer in Ohio since 2007 and was named as one of the Top 25 Women Lawyers in Cincinnati in 2016 and 2019.
